WEBSITES PUBLISHED

Association for Political Theory, <http://apt.coloradocollege.edu>. Website for a national professional association of approximately 1,000 members. The multi-page site includes information on the Association and its history; membership requirements and application forms; governance policies and officers; announcements and newsletters; programs for seven annual conferences and archives of papers given at three conferences; resources for research, teaching, and job-hunting in the field; and other matters. I first published the site in 2000 at the University of Michigan and have expanded and updated it regularly since then, including a complete site redesign in 2008. I also co-authored and published the first 14 editions of The APT Newsletter.

Beta of Colorado, <http://www.coloradocollege.edu>. Website for the Colorado College chapter of the Phi Beta Society. The site includes information about the Association and membership requirements, lists of faculty and alumni members, information about scholarships, and announcements of chapter activities. Published in 2008 and updated regularly since then.
